More than 400 people attended. The forum was part of a planning process with Beaufort County's and the City of Beaufort's efforts to generate a future land use map to improve mobility, quality of life, and community design for Lady's Island. In November 2017, a major development, "Whitehall," came to the Beaufort planning commission as the planning effort's first test. jeopardizing the health of our citizens.

During the past year, we accomplished notable victories in each of our core program areas, furthering our mission of coastal conservation. Highlights of programmatic success from 2017 include:

Food & Agriculture: Our local food project, GrowFood Carolina, is the state's first local food hub. GrowFood Carolina creates economic opportunities for local farmers by providing services and infrastructure that enable them to access wholesale markets. This work helps to conserve South Carolina's productive agricultural landscapes and provide a sustainable local food system for our communities. In late 2017, GrowFood Carolina achieved a significant milestone-selling over $5 million of fresh local products, facilitating $4 million of revenue back to South Carolina's small and mid-sized farmers over the last six years. Today, we partner with more than 85 growers producing on more than 2,500 acres throughout South Carolina. GrowFood Carolina markets more than 300 items including fresh fruits, vegetables, nuts, grains, dairy, honey, eggs & salt to major retail chains more than 200 restaurants, and a growing number of institutions and corporate campuses.

including: underinvestment in proven energy efficiency measures; lack of rigorous energy planning practices that include public input; and reluctance to remove barriers to growth of renewable energy markets.

Since the nuclear plant abandonment, the Conservation League has testified at public hearings, participated in relevant regulatory proceedings, authored newspaper editorials, and made numerous media statements highlighting the role that clean energy, energy efficiency, market competition, and best practice planning should play in moving our state forward from last year's energy disaster. This work has set the stage for significant advancements in 2018.

Additionally, the Conservation League emerged as a leader in the state fighting to protect the South Carolina coast from offshore oil and gas drilling and seismic testing.

development, and worked with the developer to improve the plan for reconsideration in 2018.

In the Charleston region, one of the last privately held tracts within the Francis Marion National Forest-about 2,000 acres-was acquired using industrial mitigation funding by our partner the Open Space Institute in November 2017. The Conservation League helped set the stage for this, and many other, conservation deals, fighting aggressive annexation attempts and working with our land trust partners to achieve critical land protection in strategic areas. The tract will ultimately be turned over to the U.S. Forest Service and opened to the public. This was the final parcel of Fairlawn Plantation available for protection, and it completes the conservation of 8,000 acres of prime longleaf pine habitat and wetlands surrounding the headwaters of the Wando River.

In Fall 2017, the City of North Charleston initiated a series of annexations of Runnymede Plantation, west of the Ashley River in the federally designated Ashley River Historic District. The City's annexation attempt raised many concerns among residents who want to preserve the historic nature of the area and maintain zoning consistent with Charleston County's agricultural lands. The Conservation League quickly organized a group of local property owners and historic preservation partners to work with the City of Charleston to prevent much of the historic property from being rezoned into higher density zoning categories.

Land, Water and Wildlife: This year marks one decade since we began working to save Captain Sams Spit, a sandy inlet at the southern end of Kiawah Island, which provides habitat and feeding grounds for many species including Bobcat, Piping Plover, Red Knot, Diamondback Terrapin, and Bottlenose Dolphin. Kiawah Partners (KP), based in Charlotte and backed by a New York hedge fund, seeks to develop the spit into 50 houses. To do so, they need to build walls, bulkheads, and add sand to the coast to attempt to stabilize the spit of land that is highly susceptible to mother nature. Captain Sams lost approximately 120 feet of beach and all of its dunes during hurricane Matthew and almost 140 feet of beach during tropical storm Irma. KP has applied to the South Carolina Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC) for five permits that would facilitate their irresponsible development. The Conservation League is protecting Captain Sams by challenging the permit requests and advancing state laws that protect the coast and taxpayers from risky development threats like this one.

As part of our work to conserve threatened bird habitat, we are leading the effort to expand and protect the Crab Bank Seabird Sanctuary, located near Shem Creek in Charleston Harbor. This small spit has provided important habitat for thousands of nesting birds for decades. Increasingly, severe weather events and boat activities have caused it to rapidly erode. In the early 2000s, Crab Bank was approximately 23 acres. Today, it is about half an acre. The diversity of bird species on Crab Bank-Brown Pelican, Black Skimmer, Royal Tern, Laughing Gull, and American Oystercatcher-is dwindling. To address the problem, the Conservation League is working with a coalition of partners to advocate for the use of the dredge material from the SC Ports Authority Charleston Harbor deepening project to reestablish Crab Bank to 80 acres, with 28 acres being suitable nesting habitat for seabirds and shorebirds.

In an ongoing effort to protect coastal waterways and marine life from plastic pollution, the Conservation League worked with conservation partners to pass local bag bans in Beaufort County and local municipalities across the coast. We also led an effort to prevent infringement on home rule by opposing a bill in the legislature that would prohibit local municipalities from banning bags.
